CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of 1950, being reasonably sound of mind, but unspeakably weary of body, being fully conscious of the inestimable value of our estate and realizing the brevity of our remaining days, do hereby make and publish our last will

I, Jocleta Dalton will the secret of my technique for swiping band and glee club music to George Barker, also my ability to drive band directors sane.
I, Mary Deniston, will my ability to play basketball to Nadine Davis.
I, Maxie Lovelady, happily will my position in basketball and my girl, to anyone who thinks they can wear my (shoes).
I, Maxine Wyatt, in frustrated mind and persecuted body, gladly will to Donna McCluney (or whatever unfortunate soul may become senior treasurer) my receipt book, numerous pencil stubs, an uncanny ability to find excuses to take up money, and the doubtfully honorable title of "Treas. of the Senior Class".
I, Don Parmenter, will my quietness to George Barker and hope he puts it to use soon. (Before it's too late).
I, Wanda Foster, will to Bob Reddick my private stack of ideas for special articles and a generous supply of the necessary midnight oil to get them on paper in time to meet deadlines.
I, Anne Shockley, will my blue eyes and blonde hair to my devoted niece, Frankie Berry. I want to keep it in the family.
I, Vilas Gatewood, will my quiet and slow ways to anyone who cares to have them.
I, Katherine Kirthpatrick, will my place at the bus station on Saturday Night to anyone who cares to wait. . .that is except for "Tootie".
I, Jack Beard, will my place as editor of "Year Book" to Jerry Derden. Good writing, Jerry.
I, Gilbert Taylor, will my muscles to John Wayland. Don't let them get you down, John.
I, John Johnson, will my seat among the girls in sociology class to Henry Williams, and please try not to go to sleep.
I, Doyle Bishop, do will my friendliness to Bill Jewell.
I, Georgia Watson, will my shortness to Vernelis Ann McCrady.
I, Owen H. Clopton, will my height to Bill Carter.
I, Nelma Hicks, will my ability to get along with others to Betty Hicks.
I, Melda Edwards, will my interest in Kennett to Mary O'Dell.
I, Jackie Holt, refuse to leave anything, I may need it.
I, John Speer, will to Jimmy Derden my adaptness at courting and always being on the ball.
I, Phyllis Blair, will my ability to get through high school to Virginia Bearden.
I, Betty Cooper, will my mischief and noisy ways to my quiet sister Euvila.
I, Bonnie Outland, will my love for speech to Faye Helen Yancy. Do a good job, Faye!
I, Shirley Livesay, will my good grades in English to Dencil Crews.
I, Lillian Holifield, will my pretty figure to Mary King. Make good use of it, Mary.
I, Frances Stahl, will my interest at Marmaduke to anyone who can take my place.
I, Don Denny, will my basketball jersey No. 88 to "Monk" Barker.
I, Jerry Sinko, will my seat on the bus to basketball games to anyone who can stand the girls.
I, Billy Thomas, will my seat in the back of the study hall to anyone who likes to see everything that is going on.
I, Betty Little, will my typing ability to Doris Carter.
I, Maggie Elsass, will my dark eyes to anyone that can make better use of them than I did.
I, Velma Jean Morrow, will to Billy Carter my valuable ability to get along with both students, and (teachers).
I, Ramona Newton, will to Vadalia Huggins my expert ability to avoid worry at any time in any place, over anything.
I, Charlotte Green, will my height to Joan Twitty hoping she can make good use of it.
I, Amanda Nichols, do will to Gloria Rust my excellent ability of getting men knowing she will happily take full advantage of it.
I, Martha Gardner, will my good humor to Donna Calvin.
I, Garnetta Mills, will my dark locks to Joan Barkemeyer feeling sure she will make good use of them.
I, Alma Irby, will to Betty Parham all the dates she desires, provided I'm the second party in the twosome.
I, Geneva Lacey, will my good journalism to my sister, Ruth as we would like to keep it in the family.
I, Marvin Joiner, will my place in agriculture class to anyone that liked it as much as I did.
Glenna Sigsby wills her expression "That irks me" to Joan Barkemeyer.

PROPHECY

In the year of nineteen hundred and forty nine, television was all the talk. We had been promised attachments for our radios for quite some time, but little did we realize that after ten years, radio would progress still further to a point beyond belief. The time is 1959. The scene, a comfortable chair in my living room and before me is the latest model of the Speer Super Viso Radio. A receiver tuned to our own personal wave lengths and designed by our own John Speers. Let us sit for a moment while I tune to our old classmates. A roar is heard and upon the screen we see a football game and upon the bench we find Marvin Joiner, now coach of a large Northwestern High School. Let me try that, said Betty Jane Cooper, now a Methodist minister and a visitor in my home. And in quick succession, she located Bill Thomas now Vice-President of the Farmers National Bank in Kennett and his hard-working secretary, Georgia Watson. We see that Maxie Lovelady is busy graduating as valedictorian of his class at Yale. He has a B. S. (Bachelor of Sally-ology) degree. Jerry Sinko is professor of the course "girl-ology" at Yale, from Ann to Zelda. (That's how Maxie got through). Through the murky ocean-depths we see Shirley Livesay in a diving helmet. She and her husband own a salvaging company. And what do we have here? I see people by the thousands. And what is it all about. Why they're only praising the skill of "Mona Lisa, Jr." painted by "Tuffy" Bishop that is now on display in the National Art Gallery in Washington, D. C. Martha Gardner is residing in Hollywood as head of the House of Gardner, a well-known ladies fashion shop. Owen H. Clopton is doing his part to carry on the family tradition. He is a prominent (bachelor) surgeon and now operates the Clopton Plastic Surgery Clinic in Tipperary, Arkansas. Here we were interrupted by a knock upon the door. "Come in", said I, and in walked Frances Stahl with her husband and kids. (11 of 'em). She told us of a trip she had just made to Chicago and of seeing Melda Edwards who is in charge of the N. B. C. Studios there and that The Follies of 1954 will be headlined by the Great Comedienne, Lillian Holifield and the dance team, Parmenter and Kirtpatrick. "May I visit for a moment?" said a voice from the screen, and there stood Dr. Betty Rae Little, Dean of Little's School for Women. And then she told us of the exploits of several of our old class. Jackie Beard is a private detective in New York City. He is definite competition for Boston Blackie. Even has his own radio "Suspense" thriller show every Sunday night following Sam Spade. Garnetta Mills is running a Nursery for all the children of her class-mates of '49-50. Ann Shockley is amazing everyone with her career as a fortune teller traveling with Barnum and Bailey Circus. Maxine Wyatt is teaching advanced lessons in piano as a pastime. She made her debut last spring when she had her first concert at Carnegie Hall. Gilbert Taylor just couldn't stand it any longer. He started raising seedless watermelons and with the profits bought a rocket ship so he could travel to Mars to study the people there. He never did understand noisy earth people. Mary Deniston is a second Esther Williams in stature, beauty and swimming ability. She is the main attraction in the Annual Aquatic Show in Tampa Springs, Florida. (Just think she couldn't even float when she was a senior in high school). Jocleta Dalton lives in a cabin on Black River to study the habits of perch. Her husband is the Corning band director. They have six girls and four boys—a basket-ball team and a football team. While she is making her observations on perch, preparatory to writing a biography on the life of fish, she is teaching biology and chemistry in Corning High School. Wanda Foster has at last reached her life's ambition. She and Margaret Truman sing duets to entertain the President of the United States and other celebrities at all the United Nations Conferences. Also has part time job teaching shorthand to Belvedere, and publishing a weekly magazine urging the eradication of certain band directors who have "cruelty to all band members" as their one object in life. Maggie Elsass is following in Ingrid Bergman's footsteps. She is Chief of Staff of an Institution for the mentally unbalanced. She specializes in male multi-millionaires. Nelma Hicks is working as a cigarette girl at the Brown Derby in Hollywood. She's trying to get the length of dresses shortened. (For shame—and to think those dresses are already so short). Don Denny is taking up where he left off in the Junior play as Butcher Boy Bean, the wrestler. He has become a successful prize fighter. Even licked Joe Louis. Also makes movies as Jesse James' partner. We are told that Ramona Newton is now the wife of an important business man in Memphis and is there caring for her twin daughters. I can see that Phylis Blair is working in Chicago as a nurse. My, my, look at that well dressed young lady. Who is she? Why of course. It's Charlotte Green. She has become a secretary for a fish hatchery in Memphis. Wait! There's some one else with her. It's Amanda Nichols, and she's also working for a well known firm—the Colgate Toothpaste Manufacturing Company in Memphis. I believe the girls have lunch together every day. (Just like old times). Velma Morrow is an English professor at Ouichita College. Jacqueline Holt is happily married to a Mr. Tommie Ricks. She has a few little "Ones" scattered around too. Alma Irby is a Home Economics teacher in Piggott, Arkansas. Geneva Lacy is a successful nurse in St. Louis, Missouri. Vilas Gatewood is teaching agriculture in our dear old R. H. S. Bonnie Outland is serving as a Wac in Nebraska. Glenna Sigsby is singing torch songs in Carnegie Hall.

At this moment there was a crash and my radio went out. RIN-G-g-g-g Doggone that old alarm, it's gone and woke me up in the middle of my dream, and I must get up and go practice for commencement.
